DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1; 2 and 12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by US patent 3100655, Work.

In regards to claim 1, Work discloses a coupling apparatus comprising:

a receiving element (13, 24, 28) defining an axial bore having an annular groove;

a retaining ring (16) supported in the annular groove;

an insertion element (11) having a radially extending projection for engaging the retaining ring in the annular groove;

the insertion element being axially inserted into the axial bore, at least partially passing through the retaining ring and the radially extending projection being received in the annular groove; and wherein the receiving element and the insertion element are rotated relative to one another and the radially extending projection is axially biased by the retaining ring to cause an end of the insertion element to bear on (but not contact) an inner surface in the axial bore of the receiving element.

Art Unit: 3679

In regards to claim 2, Work discloses the retaining ring comprising an inner circumference having a notch to allow passage of the radially extending projection past the retaining ring to be received in the annular groove.

In regards to claim 12, Work discloses a method of coupling a pipe and a fitting together the method comprising the steps of:

providing the fitting with a receiving element defining an axial bore having an annular groove;

inserting a retaining ring into the annular groove;

providing the pipe with an insertion element having a radially extending projection for engaging in the annular groove;

axially inserting the insertion element into the axial bore, at least partially passing through the retaining ring and the radially extending projection being received in the annular groove; and rotating the receiving element and the insertion element relative to one another contact the radially extending projection against the retaining ring and axially bias an end of the insertion element to bear on an inner surface (but not contact) in the axial bore of the receiving element.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 6-11 are allowed.

Claims 3-5 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1, 2 and 12 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
